To the new home owner,

Congratulations on the purchase of your new split or ducted air conditioning system. At Chillin air conditioning our customer satisfaction is of the utmost importance to us and our clients.

The importance of regular maintenance to your air conditioning system and the affects of poor or lack of proper maintance can be of detriment to your familys overall health and also the warranty terms and conditions offered by all major brands.

We would also like to point out that a reguarly serviced/maintained system will run at its most optimum saving you money on your power bills, This is most importance when it comes to filter and coil cleaning.

Lastly we all like to know our family is breathing in clean and healthy air, A neglected and or poorly maintained system can lead to the growth of harmful mould and bacteria on the surface of the coil and then making its way through your home everytime the system is used.
